The California Oak Mortality Task Force, University of California, University of California Cooperative Extension, USDA Forest Service, and California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection endorse the 24c Registration for Sudden Oak Death treatment. No endorsement of any chemical company is implied by the inclusion of labels and product information in this binder. As additional materials and treatments become available, the appropriate information will be added.

The California Oak Mortality Task Force, University of California, University of California Cooperative Extension, USDA Forest Service, and California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection endorse the 24c Registration for Sudden Oak Death treatment. No endorsement of any chemical company is implied by the inclusion of labels and product information in this binder. As additional materials and treatments become available, the appropriate information will be added.

The California Oak Mortality Task Force, University of California, University of California Cooperative Extension, USDA Forest Service, and California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection endorse the 24c Registration for Sudden Oak Death treatment. No endorsement of any chemical company is implied by the inclusion of labels and product information in this binder. As additional materials and treatments become available, the appropriate information will be added.

The California Oak Mortality Task Force, University of California, University of California Cooperative Extension, USDA Forest Service, and California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection endorse the 24c Registration for Sudden Oak Death treatment. No endorsement of any chemical company is implied by the inclusion of labels and product information in this binder. As additional materials and treatments become available, the appropriate information will be added.

The California Oak Mortality Task Force, University of California, University of California Cooperative Extension, USDA Forest Service, and California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection endorse the 24c Registration for Sudden Oak Death treatment. No endorsement of any chemical company is implied by the inclusion of labels and product information in this binder. As additional materials and treatments become available, the appropriate information will be added.

The California Oak Mortality Task Force, University of California, University of California Cooperative Extension, USDA Forest Service, and California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection endorse the 24c Registration for Sudden Oak Death treatment. No endorsement of any chemical company is implied by the inclusion of labels and product information in this binder. As additional materials and treatments become available, the appropriate information will be added.

The California Oak Mortality Task Force, University of California, University of California Cooperative Extension, USDA Forest Service, and California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection endorse the 24c Registration for Sudden Oak Death treatment. No endorsement of any chemical company is implied by the inclusion of labels and product information in this binder. As additional materials and treatments become available, the appropriate information will be added.

The California Oak Mortality Task Force, University of California, University of California Cooperative Extension, USDA Forest Service, and California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection endorse the 24c Registration for Sudden Oak Death treatment. No endorsement of any chemical company is implied by the inclusion of labels and product information in this binder. As additional materials and treatments become available, the appropriate information will be added.

The California Oak Mortality Task Force, University of California, University of California Cooperative Extension, USDA Forest Service, and California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection endorse the 24c Registration for Sudden Oak Death treatment. No endorsement of any chemical company is implied by the inclusion of labels and product information in this binder. As additional materials and treatments become available, the appropriate information will be added.

The California Oak Mortality Task Force, University of California, University of California Cooperative Extension, USDA Forest Service, and California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection endorse the 24c Registration for Sudden Oak Death treatment. No endorsement of any chemical company is implied by the inclusion of labels and product information in this binder. As additional materials and treatments become available, the appropriate information will be added.