

There are several species and hybrids of pieris, sometimes called andromeda. The young leaves and shoots of pieris are quite susceptible to infection by P. ramorum. Symptoms are brown discoloration of the young leaves and shoots.

P. ramorum symptoms on pieris

Pieris japonica

Photo: Oregon Dept. of Agriculture

Note the symptoms of P. ramorum foliar blight and shoot dieback on the youngest tissue at the top of the plant. An older leaf on the bottom right has somewhat different symptoms.